Under no circumstances should Duke be permitted to have a monopoly. We MUST allow third-party sales and encourage competition. This is a no-brainer.

To think that a super conglomerate can put pressure on renewable energy sources, groups that represent them and the consumers that need them badly to conform to their pleasure is so undemocratic. This monopoly is a barrier to the common good. Surely the people can figure this out if educated about what's going on.

Most sincerely,

Time goes by and in its wake we find so many minor crimes not worth pursuing due to failing budgets, all the result of a massive Republican attempt at creating an oligarchy in America. Some states have resisted but not good old North Carolina, apparently bent on pursuing a course where the top percentile in the state gets control of everything. If the perpetrators who were raping New York back in the early 1900's had attempted to put a governor up for election, who for twenty years worked for one of the biggest power companies in the nation, if not the world, and actually--without shame--brought he baggage to Raleigh and worked to pass a bill that would but cancel funds for alternate energies and would push rewards for his old employer, they would be ashamed of this state today; for atonement Boss Tweed would probably have started another milk fund and built two more libraries!

When does it end?

In case you have forgotten, here is your mission:

- Provide fair regulation of public utilities in the interest of the public.
- Promote the inherent advantage of regulated public utilities.
- Promote adequate, reliable, and economical utility service.
- Promote least cost energy planning.
- Provide just and reasonable rates and charges for public utility services and promote conservation of energy.
- Assure that facilities necessary to meet future growth can be financed on reasonable and fair terms.
- Encourage and promote harmony between utility companies and their customers.
- Foster planned growth of public utility services.
- Coordinate energy supply facilities with the state's development.
- Cooperate with other states and the federal government in providing interstate and intrastate public utility service and reliability of energy supply.
- Facilitate the construction of facilities in and the extension of natural gas service to unserved areas.

Please support Faith Community Church and NC Warn. It is absolutely Un-American, anti competition and monopoly supportive to allow Duke Energy to own, to the exclusion of all, the monopoly on energy renewable resources/methods. This is a totally objectionable structural barrier to real progress. Especially, in this severe climate change period, we need all the energy renewal resources possible from competitive sources so as to ensure affordability and availability to all of NC residents. Thanking you sincerely for exerting all possible influence to eliminate monopoly

As a voting constituent of Cherokee County I'm urging you to eliminate the Duke Energy monopoly and retain the state renewable energy standard. It's time North Carolina led from the front instead of the rear on energy policy. Lot's of us are watching what you do.

This statement is written to the members of the NC Public Utilities Commission in favor of allowing third party sales of renewable electricity. Competition will encourage innovation, lower the cost of electricity and help to rebalance our energy towards cleaner sources of power. Duke Energy is not entitled to a monopoly position in the energy marketplace.

Please act now to support free choice, our democratic principles and a more sustainable future for our citizens.

My statement is in reference to Docket SP-100 Sub 31 as follows:

Duke Energy should not have carte blanche and monopolize energy. Do the right thing and side with Faith Community Church. Allow the church and other organizations and individuals to buy renewable-source electricity from private businesses without interference from Duke Energy or the NC Utilities Commission!

I strongly urge the Utilities Commission to side with Faith Community Church and NC Warn to allow third party sales of renewable electricity.

A few years ago I trained Army Reserves and Civil Affairs in sustainable agricultural practices on my farm in Cumberland/Bladen counties.

One of the topics included using our solar panel powered pumps to supply our drip irrigation and pump water from underground rain collection site onto the fields.

We produced enough excess electricity to supply a small amount back to the grid but the rural electric op-ops had no mechanism to buy it.

We also tried to organize a voluntary carbon trade market located within the state buyers (again the co-ops or Duke) and NC farmers but the strangle hold Duke had on the renewables market made it impossible,

Until N.C. allows innovation and entrepreneurial opportunities within the framework of actual competition in renewable energy the State will also lag in rural economic development.

I would urge you to allow Faith Community Church to purchase the solar energy that NC WARN offers them without fining them. Hopefully, in the near future, the law will be changed so that solar energy may be purchased by companies other than Duke Energy

Dear Sir or Madam:

I would like to comment on NCUC Docket SP-1—Sub 31. NC WARN publicly petitioned the NCUC to allow a third party sale of solar generated electricity between them and FCC. It has been open and honest about the project. Please do not fine NC WARN, as Duke Energy has advocated. Third party sales of electricity should be allowed as a means of allowing NC citizens to shop for energy more affordable than the rates charged by Duke, which has a monopoly on electricity in many areas of the state. Renewable energy needs to be free of regulations which impede it in order for it to succeed. The planet is choking on carbon. Climate change is here every day. We have to attempt to change our lifestyles now. We owe it to our children.

Thank you for listening.
