Dear commissioners,

I reference the article in today's Observer concerning Duke's grip on renewables.

You as commissioners have the opportunity in these troubling times to stand with the people of our state to make North Carolina one of the states that allows for the growth of clean energy.

Have you been hearing from your children and grandchildren as well? You can be the heroes of the new, clean economy instead of bowing to the monopoly Duke has held for far too long.

Allow third party sales of renewable electricity. The opportunity offered by NC WARN for this move should be one you are happy to support.

Patricia Moore, Charlotte.

Utilities Commission:

As a citizen of North Carolina, I urge you to side with Faith Community Church and NC WARN and allow third party sales of renewable electricity.

I believe that, for the future economic growth of our state, it will be important for NC to get rid of a state monopoly on renewables.

North Carolina could continue to be quite a leader in renewable energy if the monopoly that currently exists is eliminated.

In regards to Docket SP-100 Sub 31.

We are ashamed of North Carolina. We have a beautiful state! and we cannot understand why we are one of only 4 states that will not allow third party sales of renewable electricity. The only reason we can figure is that Duke Power is in control. What other reason could there be for not allowing this in North Carolina?

We would really like a response, and I'm sure so would the rest of the people.

Sincerely yours

Jim & Nancy Self

I urge you to side with fair and free competition in the NC electricity market and allow third party electricity sales in our state. It is simply un-American and unfair to force citizens to buy electricity from a monopoly.

Get rid of laws that give Duke Energy a monopoly position over renewables and open the state to competition.

NC Utilities should side with Faith Community Church and NC WARN and allow third party sales of renewable electricity and reinstate the subsidy for alternative energy.

If Charlotte and NC want to be know as "First Class" they need to act like "First Class"
